

Small Western Heaven

National 4A-class scenic spot

Small Western Heaven is famous for its beautiful scenery. It is also called Thousand-buddhas Temple for its large-scale resplendent suspended Buddha sculptures covered with gold and hollowed out, which can be regarded as the best among the existing ancient hanging sculptures in China. For all the hanging painted sculptures of the hall, the largest one is as high as three meters, while the smallest one is as tiny as a thumb, all of which are rare treasures of its kind in China. In 1996, "Small Western Heaven" was listed in the fourth batch of national key cultural relics protection units by the State Council.
